

THINGS TO REMEMBER ON LOADING DAY

1. Items that should not be shipped by the movers are:
(please refer to items 1 and 2 on Things to remember on Packing Day)
2. Make yourself available the entire day of loading since the mover's schedule does vary from morning to afternoon loading.
3. Check the inventory to see that you agree with the notations made by the driver as to present condition of your furniture. If there is a discrepancy, make a note on the same inventory sheet.
4. Items of extraordinary value that are being shipped by the movers, such as antiques, works of art, etc., should be noted separately on the inventory along with their values.
5. Plan to leave utilities on until the day following the loading of you household goods. Having a phone that is working is invaluable.
6. Make a walk through the house, garage, cellar, backyard and storage room or building for missed items. check draws, cabinets and closets in all rooms for articles that may have been missed during the packing and loading process.
7. Make travel arrangements for departure on the day after your loading.
8. On the day of loading, make sure the driver and our office know how to reach you en route and at destination.
9. If you have any questions regarding the loading or we fail to meet expectations in any way, please call your Relocation Counselor.
